

CBU 'Completely Built Up'

The term 'CBU' generally referred to the condition of a vehicle that was to be exported. Perhaps the wheels may be removed but in general, the vehicle was ready for delivery. It was also used to describe the engine and transmission that was sent to Australia which, with the exception of a few ancillary parts, was in a finished condition.